

WERE MARRIED
AT KITTERYSchool Girl and Lynn Boy
Elope to Avoid Any "Show" at Wedding.

An elopement of great interest to the alumnae of Peabody High school has come to light in the romantic marriage of Miss Georgie Louise Newhall, one of the prettiest girls in South Peabody, and Edward Horne, Jr., a young electrician of Lynn. The couple chose Kittery, Me., for their Gretna Green, where they went a week ago last Saturday afternoon and were married by Rev. A. Natto.

The pretty bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Newhall, the former one of Peabody's ice dealers. The groom is the son of Edward Horne of Euclid avenue.

The couple have been keeping company for the last two years, their romance dating back to the senior year of the bride at the Peabody High, where she was graduated in 1911. Their friendship was cemented by frequent canoe rides.

Ostensibly to purchase a muff, Miss Newhall left Peabody for a shopping tour in Lynn. There she was joined by Mr. Horne and the couple went to Kittery. Once the ceremony was performed, the bride telephoned her mother that she had changed her name. Parental forgiveness was waiting the return of the happy pair and they are now living at the home of the bride, on Lynn street.

The bride was a record student at the St. John's Commercial school where she finished the hardest course in five months.

At the High school she was known as a diligent student, more interested in books than in the social affairs. Following her business training, she accepted a position in Lynn. The groom is employed by the Sampson-Allen Company of Lynn and is held in high esteem.

As their reason for an elopement, the couple say they wanted to get rid of a showy wedding.

MANY SEEKERS
AFTER OFFICECity Fathers Will Make Selection of Officers on Thursday Evening

The first meeting of the new city council will be held on Thursday evening. At this meeting the newly-organized council will be confronted with the difficult task of electing the various officials to preside over the many city departments this year. In view of the many aspirants for the several places and the evident desire of the council to present an united front in its public sessions, so far as the republican and democratic parties are concerned, it is probable that the seven republican members of the council will meet in caucus before the council meeting. The other aspirants are Dr. F. W. Ballaud, a veterinarian, and William P. C. Hepworth, the present incumbent, is destined of succeeding himself.

Three candidates aspire to the office of Inspector of the board of health, Edwin C. Hepworth, the present incumbent, is destined of succeeding himself. The other aspirants are Dr. F. W. Ballaud, a veterinarian, and William P. C. Hepworth, the present incumbent, is destined of succeeding himself.

Charles R. Quinn is said to oppose Tax Collector Walter H. Page for the latter's office, but Mr. Quinn says he has made no active campaign for the office.

City Messenger Elmer E. Clark, City Auditor George J. Murray and City Treasurer John C. Hatchelder will undoubtedly be returned to their offices. Frank L. Smart was a candidate for city messenger in the event of Mr. Clark's election to the city clerkship. Now it is said that Mr. Smart will undoubtedly enter the arena as the fourth candidate for Inspector of the board of health. Dr. Charles E. Johnston has come across no open opposition for the offices of chairman of the board of health and city physician but the friends of Dr. George E. Pender are said to be urging his candidacy.

Inspector of Police and Wires William M. Ballard will be re-elected without contest. Sealer of Weights and Measures Charles W. Andrews is said to be among the aspirants who will succeed himself without any formidable opposition. No candidate has as yet appeared against Charles H. Colburn, overseer of the poor.

John D. Randall is a candidate for re-election as chief of the fire department.

Fatal Injuries

Amos Pearson, an aged and highly respected resident, living on Broad street, fell down stairs this morning and sustained such injuries that death resulted shortly afterwards.

He was born in Ipswich, Mass., Nov. 2, 1828, the son of Amos and Lucy (Ross) Pearson. He had made his home in this city for many years, in his younger days following the profession of a music teacher. Of late years he had conducted a florist business.

He is survived by a widow and one daughter, Miss Helen Pearson of this city, and a son, Edwin Pearson of Milford, Mass.

He was a member of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, A. F. and A. M.

GOV. FELKERNew Governor Inaugurated at Noon Today.

Special to The Herald.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 7.—Governor Samuel D. Felker was inaugurated governor of the state of New Hampshire at noon today. In his inaugural address he recommended the election of senators by the people; the doing away with of many useless commissions; a stricter economy in state affairs; an additional appropriation of $250,000 for uncompleted state roads; reorganization of the official staff at the state house, eight hours to constitute a day's work; improvement in the ballot law, so that voters could mark their ballot without being observed.

He stated that the governor and council should have added power of suspension and recommended that the constitutional convention be reconvened so that other amendments to the constitution could be adopted.

Members of Col. Sise Company and Guests Enjoy a Fine Repast.

The members of Col. Sise S. F. E. Co., No. 2, acted as hosts on Monday evening at the regular monthly meeting and entertained the board of engineers and ex-members of the company in a handsome manner. After the routine business was disposed of, the members and their invited guests repaired to the banquet hall where a roast pig dinner with all the necessary fixings had been prepared by Porley Hersey, James Scott and D. Edwin Jenkins. Everything was done to turn and all present did ample justice to the good things set before them. Following the supper remarks were made by Chief Engineer Randell and the board of engineers, Horace A. Mudge, Samuel Hand, Warren Webster and others.

During the entire evening the spirit of good cheer reigned and the occasion will long linger in the memory of the Col. Sise boys, and those who were fortunate enough to be their guests.

HAVE SUSPENDED
THE CONFERENCETurkey's Answer Did Not Please the Representatives of the Allies

London, Jan. 6.—The first stage of the peace negotiations which is regarded by diplomats largely as one of pretense on Turkey's part to avoid the appearance of yielding to the demands of the allies without pressure from the powers, is over now. It is expected that the second stage will soon begin with the powers acting behind the scenes and pulling the strings which will force Turkey to concede the bulk of the allies' demands.

Without money, her army inadequate and demoralized, her statesmen to resume hostilities with the slight chance of success.

At today's sitting of the conference Turkey renounced in favor of the statement which, although containing small concessions, left the situation practically unchanged. Rechid Pasha said that although his instructions were to communicate only the statement which he had read, he believed that his government might be induced to grant another small rectification of the Thracean frontier, ceding several districts, the population of which were for the most part Christians.

That does not mean a rupture of the negotiations. The conference may be resumed either by Turkey giving notification that she has fresh proposals to submit or by the allies on the ground that they have communications to make to the Turks. It is generally expected that the work of the conference will be taken up again at the end of the week, when the festivities in connection with the Orthodox Christmas are ended.

The allies' way held a short meeting before the official sitting and discussed the possibilities with reference to the statement which Rechid Pasha had been asked to make respecting the Balkan ultimatum, and agreed on the reply of the allies.

First, if Rechid Pasha's statement was arrogant and provocative, then notwithstanding the advice of the powers in favor of moderation, they would break off the negotiations; second, if Rechid were courteous, but the new concessions unimportant, they would suspend the conference; third, if Rechid made important concessions, without absolutely conceding the allies' demands, they would adjourn the sitting until Friday, in order to allow time to consult their respective governments.

Expectation was intense when the Serbian delegate, Stojan Novakovich, opened the session. Rechid Pasha, before reading his statement, made a brief speech. He said that Turkey was prepared to give further proof of her conciliatory spirit and desire to avert bloodshed, but he regretted that the allies seemed determined to concede nothing on their part and had turned a deaf ear to humanitarian considerations. He then read the following:

"If we refuse the cession of Adrianople it is because its cession is impossible, for the security of Constantinople and the Dardanelles. Besides, I must add that we are here with the firm intention to establish a lasting peace, with such conditions as will ensure friendly relations and commercial facilities profitable to both parties."

"We still are ready today to discuss the frontier line between Turkey and Bulgaria, but this frontier must leave the Wedding Was Delayed 10 Days

CAPTAIN WAS

Here is the telephoned conversation which tore Bert Swearington, private in the U. S. marine guard stationed here, from the side of his bride-to-be and brought disgrace upon him just as the couple were about to be married:

"Is this Mr. Hill?"

"Yes."

"This is Mr. Swearington. I would like one hour's extension of my leave to get married."

"Report to the post at once. Your request is not granted."

Not only was the almost-bridegroom's request refused, but he was given 10 days' "restriction" and extra duty for "preach of military etiquette."

The trouble with the innocent sounding conversation was this: Swearington happens to be a private and Hill happens to be a captain.

In addressing the latter, Swearington, after his two years' service with the marines, should have known better than to say "Mr." Hill and "Mr." Swearington. He should have said "Is this Capt. Hill?" and "This is Private Swearington."

Had Bert done this he and Miss Louise Bowker would have been man and wife nearly a fortnight ago, as per their plans. The couple were forced to postpone the ceremony for 10 long days.

That's why his friends say that Swearington has been swearing some. But he is safely married now, the wedding having taken place yesterday.

Y. M. C. A. COUNTY CONVENTION HELD HERE

Much Progress in Formation of a County Association--Banquet at Y. M. C. A. Building.

At the business session of those who attended the organization meeting of the Rockingham County Y. M. C. A. Colonel Lyford A. Merrow who presided appointed the following men on the resolutions committee: J. T. Davis of Portsmouth; W. W. Cone of Seabrook; H. G. Lang of Hampton; H. R. Chapman of Candia; G. B. Rogers of Rye. These men submitted the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, that we realize the sacredness and efforts made by many of our delegates in being present on this occasion and extend to them our appreciation of the interest shown in our work.

Resolved, that it is the sincere wish of the delegates that a Rockingham County Y. M. C. A. be organized under the plans suggested by the New Hampshire state committee and we suggest for the consideration of the association the following county committee: J. Swasey, Brentwood; J. H. Foster, Candia; A. H. Wilcox, Chester; C. M. Collins, Seabrook; Gen. A. N. Dow, Exeter; Rev. F. J. Libby, Exeter; C. H. Brackett, Greenland; Dr. Z. S. Kemp, Kingston; A. P. Hubbard, Fremont; W. Kingston; Pres. E. T. Fairchild, of New Hampshire College; H. Glazier of Hampton; Pres. L. J. Marrian, Derry.

Resolved, that we extend to the Rockingham County Y. M. C. A. our sincere thanks for their kindness in providing this organization with lunch and for the many other favors rendered at their hands.

Resolved, that we extend to the Parish of the North Congregational church our appreciation for the use of their chapel on this occasion.

Resolved, that we heartily appreciate the interest shown by the speaker in giving the day to our cause and the zealous interest shown by the addresses.

Signed, the committee.

After the adjournment of the meeting the county committee went into executive session.

The following men attended the convention: Rev. A. H. Thompson, Raymond; R. R. Chapman, Candia; Rev. J. F. Scott, Candia; G. B. Rogers, Rye; J. H. Bailey, Rye; Rev. T. J. Cate, Chester; S. F. Swain, Hampton Falls; D. P. Putnam, Rye; A. C. Roberts, Conway; F. T. Johnson, Rye; H. G. Thordwin, Atkinson; Rev. R. C. Keith, Concord; C. M. Collins, Seabrook; D. M. Evans, E. Kingston; M. Serbner, Raymond; Rev. H. F. Gately, Exeter; H. H. Haase, Dover; W. B. Bansdon, Newmarket; A. B. Colpitts, Peltett River, N. H.; F. W. Teague, Concord; L. M. Russell, Somersworth; L. D. Bragg, Rye; E. M. Smith, No. Hampton; P. E. Jewell, Stratham; E. W. Darke, No. Hampton; D. W. Badger, Portsmouth; J. T. Davis, Portsmouth; H. C. Mannan, Concord; A. B. Roberts, New York City; Rev. E. Robie, Greenland; H. B. Watson, Concord; G. E. Huse, Newmarket; J. E. J. Libby, Exeter; Z. W. Kemp, Kingston; L. J. Marrian, Derry; A. D. Booth, Portsmouth; Col. L. A. Merrow, Duxbury; Prof. E. T. Fairchild, New Hampshire College; P. H. Freeman, Concord; E. Tuttle, Rye.

The toastmaster next introduced Pres. E. T. Fairchild who took for the subject of his address "The Rural School." He stated that it was his conviction that the old time country school had vanished, and that correspondingly education was becoming broader. He said that the need of the true rural education was just beginning to be recognized and that the 12,000,000 country boys and girls were beginning to be given the right kind of instruction.

He said in part that "there is no organization more worthy of interest, attention and help than the rural school. The country has even been and will ever continue to be the nation's recruiting ground for from it comes the initiative, the constructive ideas, and indeed the great leaders of the world, while the city continues to be the center of organization, it must be sustained by the new blood which can come only from the country.

The highest function of the rural school is to give to the world cultured citizenship. This can only be brought about through the same competent supervision that is afforded city schools and this in turn must be supplemented by the active support of every moral and spiritual organization with which the country youth comes into contact."

He concluded his address by an expression of the conviction that what New Hampshire college should stand for, above all else is civic righteousness and that his best work can be done in the rural communities where educational education is of paramount importance.

The next speaker of the afternoon was Henry C. Morrison, state superintendent of schools. He affirmed that rural conditions could not be recognized from an economic standpoint, but that there must be a spiritual foundation. He pictured the opportunities that lie before district school superintendents in upholding the iniquity and womanhood of New Hampshire.

Mr. Albert E. Roberts of New York City was the last speaker of the afternoon. He outlined the wonderful possibilities that are before our state in the field of country work, applying in a soft and pleasing manner the three-fold purpose of the Y. M. C. A. of perfecting youth in spirit, mind and body, in the country school.

After the adjournment of the meeting the county committee went into executive session.

The following men attended the convention: Rev. A. H. Thompson, Raymond; R. R. Chapman, Candia; Rev. J. F. Scott, Candia; G. B. Rogers, Rye; J. H. Bailey, Rye; Rev. T. J. Cate, Chester; S. F. POEHLER MEETS HINTZE.

Star Bowler Formerly of This City Still a Favorite.

Paul Poehler, champion candlepin bowler of New England, formerly of this city, is still in the game in Massachusetts.

On Monday night he bowled the first half of a twenty-string match with Harvey Hintze at the Congress Alleys of Chelsea.

This match, being the first one of importance that Poehler has engaged in this winter, has created much interest in bowling circles. The match was well attended.

Poehler is anxious to begin well and incidentally even up terms with Hintze, who defeated him in a special match last winter.

Poehler, because of his consistent good season, is the favorite. He has taken part in every City League match, sixteen in all, and has put up an average of 107, his nearest competitor being four points in the rear of him.

IN A HARD MATCHSAMSON A VERY CLEVER MAN BUT NO
Match for the Local Wrestler.

A battle of two clever men as has ever been seen in this city in the wrestling game, was witnessed by a crowd at Freeman's hall on Monday evening when W. D. Dryden of this city defeated Oscar Samson of Pittsfield, Mass., who claims the New England light heavy weight championship in two out of three falls.

It was a fine battle with both men pressed to the utmost at all times and they gave an exhibition of as clever work as has ever been seen in this city. Samson is clearly an old hand at the game; he has been wrestling for fourteen years and in that time has met the best men of the country, but in Dryden he met his match, and he admits one of the best men of his weight in the business.

Samson is the cleverest man with his feet that has ever been on a mat here, for he handles his feet as good as his hands and there is never a time when they are not doing their full share of the work. This cleverness with his feet clearly baffled Dryden who found hold after hold broken. In this way, both are very strong with the advantage in this respect with Dryden who several times by sheer strength broke away from holds that looked good for a fall. At times both men went very fast and in one or two rallies they worked so fast that it was hard work to follow them.

Dryden made good use of the low hold, but several times Samson wiggled out of this by crawling off the mat, the rule being that off the mat was a break and both go back to the center. Samson tried it several times himself but never got it on Dryden.

Samson got the first fall in fifteen minutes with a head scissors and a toe hold, Samson being pinned to the mat. The second fall went to Samson in nine minutes on a head scissors and a bar hold.

The men came out for the final go after a few minutes rest and they went at it hard and fast, Samson using every trick in the business to get Dryden off guard, but he refused to be caught and what hold he was in he wiggled out of, sometimes with apparent ease. He had Samson nearly tired at the last and at the end of forty-eight minutes of the hardest kind of work he succeeded in getting a toe hold on Samson that caused him to quit.

It was a remarkable, clean match with both men given a fair show by the crowd and every good hold was well cheered.

At the conclusion of the match Samson admitted that he had been beaten by a better man and in a fair match, but he asked for a return match, being willing to put up a side bet of $50. Dryden however, stated that he had already promised a match to Fitz Hansen, one of the cleverest men of his weight in the country and he would give Samson a show after that match. The challenge of Dryden was also considered but he will come later.

Henry Crogan reformed the matches and at times it kept him busy dodging flying bodies.

There seems no doubt but what the wrestling game has come to stay and the big crowd who were present will continue to be present as long as the matches are as clean and fast as all this winter. The next match with Hansen promises to be a great one, for in Hansen Dryden will meet a man, who has been defeated but a few times at the most, four years ago he threw Dryden in this city, but Dryden has improved wonderfully in that time.

den who cleverly availed every attempt.

HODGDON-HARVEY
MARRIAGE

The marriage of Miss Annie W. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey of Pickering street and Joseph W. Hodgdon, of the firm of Hodgdon and Kershaw, was solemnized at 7 o'clock on Monday at the Middle street parsonage, Rev. W. P. Stanley performing the ceremony. It was a very quiet affair, the couple being unattended, but the quietness applied only to the wedding ceremony for Joe's friends long ago decided that he would be given a proper send off.

They gathered at the parsonage and when the bride and groom appeared there was a shower of rice and confetti, which will leave its mark on Middle street for many days. At the railroad station Joe was in a position to think that too many friends are bad, for there were over 200 present and they certainly did assist in the send off.

Mr. and Mrs. Hodgdon will sail next Saturday for Bermuda, on a two weeks wedding trip. On their return they will reside on Richard Avenue. The bride was for some time employed as bookkeeper at Bensfield's market and she is a very popular young lady.

BALL BLUNDER

Haven and Grand Trunk roads must decide what they will do with reference to the Federal judgments was extended today for a week. The defendants will have until next Monday to demur or change their tentative pleas of not guilty, already entered.

When the case came before the Federal Court today John D. Lindsay, attorney for Mellen and Chamberlin, said that he had not had time to study the case and determine whether he wished to make any preliminary motions. The extension was granted at his request.

CARPENTER
H. C. ELKINS DEAD

Carpenter Herbert G. Elkins, U. S., died on Monday at his home in Kittery after a lingering illness, with consumption. He was born in Milton, Mass., the son of David H. and Mary White Elkins, and he was 39 years, 4 months and six days old. He came to Kittery as a young man and learned his trade on the navy yard, took an examination for Carpenter in the navy, and was appointed some fifteen years ago, and he has served several years at sea, and at one time was stationed here. He has been ill a long time and has been resting owing to disability.

He leaves a mother, three brothers and a son, his wife having died some time ago. He will be given a full military funeral on Thursday.

Praise This Remedy
For Consumption

If the voluntarily written words of grateful people living in all parts of the country, praising Beckman's Alternative, a remedy for the treatment of cough, colds, throat and lung troubles, are to be believed, this medicine is certainly doing its work, and good for much suffering. We invite you to read and give to you the names and words of praise of those who declare it benefited them—in many cases coupled with the writer's statement that it restored them to health. This is a sample taken from many others.

St. Mary's Academy, O'Neill, Nebraska. "Gentlemen—About seven years ago I was attacked with the dread disease, Tuberculosis. I coughed unceasingly, could not sleep nor eat, even could not walk out to go to the toilet. I could do no work. Then, however, I soon found more of the time and suffered of night sweats, fever and chills. A specialist of Columbus, Ohio, pronounced my case hopeless."

"Ninety-five years ago I heard of your Alternative and immediately came to you with the result that I soon found myself restored to health. For the past four years I have been able to continue my teaching, and though I have always had heavy school work, I am also able to perform much manual labor. I consider myself strong. It is, however, often a most excellent remedy for Consumption. Mother Superior permits this testimonial. (Signed) SISTER MARIE."

Sisters of St. Francis, Beckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Cough, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Disease, and all forms of Consumption. Does not contain poisons, quinine or heart-forming drugs. Ask for pocketful of remedies and write to Beckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

Centralized Authority Needed.

An unprejudiced and disinterested hearer of such an account of Boston's present fire hazards as given by Commissioner Cole to the Twentieth Century Club can only assent to his demand for prompt change of administrative duties and responsibilities. The fire department is least of seven governmental agencies now charged with authority that is supposed to conserve life and property against loss by fire. Red tape binds in a wasteful way. Duplication exists where there should be unity, and simplicity and directness of action are thwarted by complexity and indirection. Is there a move in the direction of reform, then? Property-owning interests that might be affected if laws against unsafe and risky structures were enforced, get busy. Their success imposes higher insurance rates on the community at large and is to some extent an excuse for a startling total annual loss of property.

That there may be no question as to the correctness of this department head's complaint, it is only necessary to interrogate competent insurance experts and let them tell of a variety of local conditions that make Boston far from a national leader in fire prevention and reduction of hazards. New York city, of late years, has been forced to serious consideration of its own needs in this field, and has worked out a system of precise relations between the fire, police, street, building and wiring departments which gives primacy of authority to the first named and puts responsibility for delayed or inefficient action where it belongs and where it can be dealt with. Expert knowledge of the fire fighters controls action taken in all other fields of municipal activity that impinge or overlap in a way to delay the prevention of fires or their rapid and thorough extinction.

Commissioner Cole is not hesitant about intimating yet another defect of the local situation. The supposed federation of fire departments in Greater Boston for joint action is now wholly dependent upon the good will of fire chiefs. It should be a mandatory provision of law.—Christian Science Monitor.

The Life Savers Well Deserve Pensions.

Absurdly, and even outrageously, generous as this country has been in granting pensions, giving them to thousands and thousands of people, whose claim to public support or assistance is no more than an excuse which it would be wild exaggeration to call colorable, no provision is yet made for one class of the Nation's servants who are constantly risking and often losing health and life itself in the performance of their daily duties. These are the members of the Life Saving Corps. From them heroic self-sacrifice is expected as a matter of course, and the expectation is never disappointed. Yet, when old age—which for them comes early—makes a continuance of their wild work impossible, they are dismissed to live on such savings as their scanty pay has enabled them to accumulate, and, notwithstanding whatever is made for their dependents. Deserved attention is called by the Detroit papers to a case which illustrates both what should be done and what is not done for these men. Captain Albert Ocha, who has been in charge of the station of Eagle Harbor, Keweenaw Point, Lake Superior, since last September, has just died at the age of forty-nine, leaving behind him seven motherless children, the oldest a girl of fourteen. He had been in the Life Saving Service on the Great Lakes for twenty-nine years and was a man with a magnificent record for courage and efficiency.—New York Times.

The Bull-Moose Trail.

In Michigan eleven progressive republicans bolted the republican legislative caucus and threaten to prevent the re-election of Senator William Alden Smith, the republican choice.

In Maine the progressive members of the legislature caucused with the republicans and their votes will make sure the election to the Senate of ex-Representative Burleigh, a republican of the old school.

In New Jersey a meeting of progressives and republicans—one progressive and one republican delegate from each county—has been called for this week to arrange a reunion with the purpose of recapturing the State from the democrats.

Anybody is at liberty to judge for himself whether the progressives' fight is to go on independent of other parties, or whether, according to locality, it is a fight for principles or for politics, for conscience' sake or for the offices and spoils.—New York World.

Mr. Mellen appears to be involving himself in a newspaper controversy with Mr. Brandeis and other Massachusetts reformers. The head of the big railroad system is likely to be at a decided disadvantage in a controversy of this kind, because he is a laid-back voter, apathetic of his time and attention to running his railroads, while the reformers have responsibilities of that nature, and can put in practically all of their time writing to the newspapers and roasting the railroads.—Laconia Democrat.

General Cipriano Castro, the "Stormy Petrel," And His Secretary on Recent Visit to U. S.

General Cipriano Castro, ex-president and erstwhile dictator of Venezuela, is a man without a country. As a claim to the stormy career in which he has figured as despot and revolutionist and because of which he long has held the title of "Stormy Petrel" General Castro was barred from the United States. The noted exile came to the port of New York recently expressing his innocent intention of making a three-months' tour of the country. Three departments of the United States government got busy forthwith on measures to prevent him not only from making the tour, but from even entering the country. The well understood reason for this was that because of Castro's many plots and conspiracies against the government of a friendly country the United States government deemed him an undesirable citizen. The pictures given herewith show General Castro wearing his gold embroidered skull cap and a snapshot of him and Alfred Torrecrossa, his secretary, during a stroll on Ellis Island.

PEACE BETWEEN GANGS, URGES CHIEF SCOUT TO THE BOY SCOUTS

Ernest Thompson Seton, in his New Year's Message to the Scouts emphasized the Spirit of International Peace—He Points Out That This Can Begin With the Boys by Having Peace Among the Different Gangs.

Ernest Thompson Seton, Chief Scout of the Boy Scouts of America, wishes the Scouts a Happy New Year! He hopes that the boys will progress in manhood in the coming year, and that they will help in the spirit of international brotherhood. In the statement to the scouts, he says:

"Hail! Boy Scouts of America!

"Another year has gone and a new one dawned in peace. This is a good time to look back on our record and onward on our plans for the future. What are you going to do this coming year? Win your second-class badge! Bring in a new tenderfoot, or, better still, get up a delegation to bring in one new scout master. So long as you get out with a plan you are sure to get good results."

A lady said to me out West, not long ago: "I don't know much about the Boy Scouts, but I always get a comfortable feeling of safety when I meet one in some strange place. I know that here is some one who is kind, manly, and ready to help me."

It's a fine thing to have this idea diffused throughout the land among those who know little more than the name of our organization! This is one of the results of eight years on the part of our scouts.

It is nearly a hundred years now since there was war between England and America. Soon we shall be celebrating the hundred years of peace between these two countries that have three thousand miles of common frontier without a gun or a pony on guard. And yet there has been no cause to regret this seeming carelessness. Why? Because the spirit of brotherhood has hovered over the councils of the two nations. And it is that spirit of brotherhood that the Boy Scout movement is entirely formed to promote. Three hundred thousand of our youth—future leading Americans—have a thousand thousand others who have joined this service, whose avowed object is to foster the brotherhood of man.

Other men are striving to impress the thought on the grown-ups. We Harbor and Land Commission Seeks to Protect Beaches.

Recommendations in the report of the state board of harbor and land commissioners presented to the legislature yesterday include one that the commission be given jurisdiction over all non-tidal rivers and streams in the commonwealth. Others are that any person convicted of taking or removing any stones, gravel, sand or other material from any beach, shore, bluff, headland, island or bar in or bordering on any tide waters shall be punished by fine of not less than $20 nor more than $200; that the commission be authorized to make a survey of the great ponds of the commonwealth containing 10 or more acres of land, and to ascertain to what extent they have been encroached upon by private parties; and that permits granted by local officers of aldermen and selectmen authorizing the construction of weirs, pound nets and fish traps be subject to the approval of the state board.

KITTERY

Breezy Items From Village Across the River.

Kittery Correspondent's Telephone, 778-M; P. O. box 303.

Constitution Lodge, No. 88, Knights of Pythias, holds its regular meeting this evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

The Kittery Catholic Club will have its second Grand social at Wentworth Hall on Wednesday evening, Jan. 8.

Dr. Henry J. Durgin of South Elliot was a business visitor in Saco today.

Mr. and Mrs. George Grace of Charlestown, Mass., passed the week end with his mother, Mrs. Charles Meyers.

Bertram F. Moore of Oak Bank is in Boston for two days attending the annual meeting of the Painters' and Decorators' Association, which convenes in that city.

Miss Isabelle Googins of Rogers road has returned from a few days' visit in Lawrence, Mass.

Mrs. Ira Keene and Mrs. Leslie J. Williams went to North Berwick today, where they will install the officers of Ray of Hope Rebekah Lodge this evening.

Miss Mabel Pollock, teacher at the Wentworth Primary school, grades 3 and 4, returned Saturday from a trip to New York.

Mrs. James R. Philbrick will entertain the Ladies Social Circle at its annual business meeting on Thursday afternoon.

Piscataqua Chapter, O. E. S., meets tomorrow evening and will install its officers.

Fred Paul is restricted to his home on Cottle's Hill by an attack of the grip.

The many friends of Carpenter Herbert G. Elkins of Love lane were pained to learn of his death on Monday afternoon after a long and painful illness of consumption. He was a native of Milton, Mass., but had made his home in Kittery for many years, and married Miss Grace Drury of the navy yard, who passed away several years ago. He entered the navy as carpenter on Jan. 10, 1890, but was restricted a few years later on account of ill health. He was aged 39 years, and besides his aged mother, a son, Alvan, and three brothers, residents of Amesbury and Hampton Falls, are left to mourn. He was a member of Naval Lodge of Masons, Riverside Lodge of Odd Fellows and Constitution Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

Master Albert Philbrick on Monday evening from 7 to 10, entertained several of his little friends at his grandparents' home on Pine street, the occasion being the eleventh anniversary of his birth. Games made the time pass all too quickly for his little guests, ice cream and assorted cake being served. Each guest was presented a souvenir of the evening, while Master Albert was well remembered with little gifts from his friends.

Franklin E. Burnham is reported to be sick at his home on Woodlawn avenue.

Little Geraldine Iva Morrow is getting along nicely from her attack of scoliosis.

Wednesday evening, Jan. 8, memorial services for the late Mrs. Keene will be held by Whipple Lodge, 1. O. G. T., at Grange hall.

Charles W. Adams of the Rogers road is restricted to his home by illness.

Mrs. Anna W. Hobbs has recovered from her recent sickness.

Alexander Bennett of Echo street is ill at his home.

Mrs. Miriam Rathburn of East Mansfield, Mass., has returned home after being in town in attendance on her mother's funeral.

Services at the Second Christian church on Sunday last were very interesting and well attended. Rev. Arnoldo Natino preached an excellent sermon at 10:30 a. m. The solo, "We're Nearing the City," was very impressively rendered by Albert L. Sprague. Session of Sunday school at 12 o'clock, 37 being present, which speaks well, as so many are restricted on account of severe colds, dengue, etc. Consecration of Christian Endeavor at 6, Miss Julia H. Duncan leader. An unique feature of the calling of the roll of the members backwards. Mr. Sprague led the praise service and rendered a solo. Sermon at 7 of unusual merit and interest.

Maurice L. Duncan of Lowell, Mass., was the guest of his father, E. A. Duncan of Williams avenue on Sunday.

Augustus H. Jenkins of Chester, N. H., has been the guest of his father, Joseph Jenkins, Sr.

Thomas Jackson Pottgrew of North Kittery passed away early Sunday morning, after a long illness. He leaves a wife and three daughters to mourn his loss. He was a member of Naval Lodge of Masons.

CARD OF THANKS
I desire to return my heartfelt and sincere thanks to all friends and neighbors for their kindness to me in my recent bereavement, also for the beautiful flowers sent to the funeral of my mother.

QUININE? NO! PAPE'S BEST FOR BAD COLD

First Dose of Pape's Cold Compound Ends Grippe Misery

It is a positive fact that dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most insufferable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, catarrh, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this wonderful Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or aid after effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist can supply—accept no substitute—contains no quinine. Belongs in every home. Tastes nice—acts gently.

A "DE LUXE" SALE

For the first time in forty years New Hampshire has a Democratic governor, a Democratic majority in the council and in both branches of the legislature. This radical change in all branches of the state government is not due to increased Democratic sentiment among the voters of the state, but to a trade between the Democratic leaders and the leaders of the bolting Republicans, calling themselves Progressives, made possible by the result of the election in November.

The Democrats in that election cast less votes than in some previous elections, but through the influence of a few ambitious leaders, who had previously been Republicans and placed in office by Republican votes, a bolt from the Republican party was engineered, through the lavish expenditure of money and false and vicious statements, resulting in turning the state over to Democratic control, with only such advantage to the bolters as was included in the articles of agreement constituting the bargain.

Robert P. Bass was placed in the gubernatorial chair two years ago by the activity and votes of Republicans, and no sooner had he been inaugurated than he began consorting with Democrats to wreck the Republican party in New Hampshire, the consummation of which scheme has recently occurred in the legislature.

Turning a deaf ear to the Republicans, a state who had worked and voted for his election, he took counsel with wealthy schemers outside, and by the aid of their wealth and demagogic utterances, and the assistance of office-seeking and office-holding bolters within the state, has carried out the bargain made with the Democrats and accomplished his purpose.

This seems to have been his main object during the two years he has occupied the office of governor, and about all he has accomplished, except spending like water the hard-earned dollars that the taxpayers of the state have contributed to the state treasury, and all under the cloak of Progressivism.

The Democrats are naturally jubilant over the result, for they have lost nothing except the honor of winning the fight themselves, which they haven't done for nearly a half century, and did not do this time.

They are handicapped by having goods in their possession not obtained by party support. There is not so much honor in accepting things from another as in earning them. It is a matter of humiliation to hundreds of self-respecting Democrats, who believe in the principles of the party, to claim a victory through other sources than the support of those principles.

They realize, however, that the Democratic payment in this transaction was exceedingly light, compared with the windings.

They also know that Governor Bass and his satellites will never have another opportunity to dictate away the Republican party in New Hampshire or anywhere else, and therefore are inclined to look upon the matter as a somewhat unfortunate occurrence for them.

Both parties will find it a "de luxe" sale before the matter ends.—Mirror.

A POOR START.

Manchester Fair Association

Goes to the Wall.

The Manchester Fair Co., which came into being with such a flourish last summer only to go up against a spell of wet weather on Labor and other days of the first annual exhibition, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with the clerk of the United States court.

As stated in the petition the liabilities of the company aggregate $4,800,000, and the assets total $163,411.

DAMAGED IN GALE

Schooner John J. Hanson Lost

Anchors and Topmasts

J. Frank Seavey, treasurer of the Dover Navigation Company, received a letter on Monday from New London, Conn., stating that the schooner John J. Hanson, owned by the Dover Navigation Company, was somewhat damaged during the heavy wind on Saturday night. The schooner lost two anchors, and also had her topmasts carried away by the wind. The gale which the schooner encountered is said to be about the worst one that has been experienced in years.

Dolan's Regulates are recommended by many who say they operate easily without griping and without bad after effects. See at all drug stores.

From the beginning of his administration to the closing scenes in consultation in the state house with Democrats to wreck the Republican bargain, his chief and apparently only object has been the disruption of the Republican party. Office-holders that would not join in this dastardly scheme were removed so far as the consent of the council would permit, and such appointments made as would contribute to it. Republicans who have been loyal party workers since he was in swaddling clothes in Chicago have been ignored, because advice in the interest of the party was not desired, and the counsel of traitors to the party that made him and them has been sought in its place. As a result of all this, a few men in the legislature were placed in a position where they could bargain with the Democrats to deliver the state government into their hands, which they proceeded to do, and the Republicans of the state were helpless in preventing it. They were at the mercy of a small number of representatives elected as Republicans, and were bargained away without any voice in the matter.

In striking contrast with this action is that of the Progressives in the state of Maine, where the legislature is now in session, and where their course was somewhat consistent. The Republican majority there was but little larger than in the New Hampshire legislature, but instead of selling out to the Democrats they have voted with the Republicans in the organization of the legislature and will do the same in the election of a United States senator. They manifest a recognition of the obligation they are under to the Republicans who elected them, but surrender none of the progressive policies to which they are committed. The object there is to save the party that gave them their election, while in New Hampshire it has been the object of members similarly situated to wreck it.

No one doubts that the Progressives in the Maine legislature are as loyal to the principles of their party as those in the New Hampshire legislature, and they have retained the respect of their constituents, who in New Hampshire are Republicans for they have not been bargained away.

The conspirators in this deal may be somewhat elated just at present over the success of it, but it is of a temporary nature. When the Republicans of the state fully comprehend the iniquity of the transaction which has been made over their heads, and realize that their votes cast for candidates to the legislature regularly nominated at Republican primaries were for men who consummated this deal in the interest of the Democratic party, there will be such an uprising against the methods employed as will not only sound the death knell of the Progressive party in this state, but will bury beyond resurrection the political ambitions of those connected with it. A few fat offices for the leaders will be mighty poor satisfaction to the rank and file, which really constitute the goods delivered.

The Democrats are naturally jubilant over the result, for they have lost nothing except the honor of winning the fight themselves, which they haven't done for nearly a half century, and did not do this time.

They are handicapped by having goods in their possession not obtained by party support. There is not so much honor in accepting things from another as in earning them. It is a matter of humiliation to hundreds of self-respecting Democrats, who believe in the principles of the party, to claim a victory through other sources than the support of those principles.

They also know that Governor Bass and his satellites will never have another opportunity to dictate away the Republican party in New Hampshire or anywhere else, and therefore are inclined to look upon the matter as a somewhat unfortunate occurrence for them.

Both parties will find it a "de luxe" sale before the matter ends.—Mirror.

Manchester Fair Association

Goes to the Wall.

The Manchester Fair Co., which came into being with such a flourish last summer only to go up against a spell of wet weather on Labor and other days of the first annual exhibition, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with the clerk of the United States court.

As stated in the petition the liabilities of the company aggregate $4,800,000, and the assets total $163,411.

Schooner John J. Hanson Lost

Anchors and Topmasts

J. Frank Seavey, treasurer of the Dover Navigation Company, received a letter on Monday from New London, Conn., stating that the schooner John J. Hanson, owned by the Dover Navigation Company, was somewhat damaged during the heavy wind on Saturday night. The schooner lost two anchors, and also had her topmasts carried away by the wind. The gale which the schooner encountered is said to be about the worst one that has been experienced in years.

Dolan's Regulates are recommended by many who say they operate easily without griping and without bad after effects. See at all drug stores.

DEMOCRATS OUT TO GATHER THE PLUMS

First Time for Many Years Great Political Offices Will Be Distributed to the Faithful.

The legislature will convene again today and this noon Governor Sununu D. Miller will deliver his inaugural address.

It is expected that the legislature will not accomplish much today but Wednesday's session promises to be very interesting.

The Democrats are much elated over their great victory and they are talking of cleaning out all of the offices and filling the positions with the faithful who naturally are clamoring for the spoils. It is however, doubtful if they will get the support of the Progressives for this and again the Conservative Democrats are opposed to being too vocal on the ground that it would kill the party before the people two years from now. It is understood that Secretary of State Edward Pearson will be re-elected, and possibly State Treasurer Carter, both faithful and efficient state officers who have hosts of friends in both parties.

There are however, many fine talents to be filled, as may be seen from the following list:

State Auditor—For two years, salary, $3000.

Adjutant General, by governor alone—For two years; salary, $1500.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—For two years; salary, $3500.

Insurance Commissioner—For three years; salary, $2000.

State Engineer—Salary, $5000.

Two Bank Commissioners—For three year terms, at $2500 salaries.

Probate Surveor—Commissioner for six years at salary of $1000.

State Board of Charities and Corrections—Two members for five years each. The salaried office of secretary is now held by a Democrat W. J. Aher.

Public Printing Commission—Five members for two years. The clerk receives salary of $600.

One custodian of state lands for six years.

Trustees of State Library—Two for three years each. The trustees elect state librarian at salary of $2500 with staff of assistants.

Board of Agriculture—Four members for three years each. Secretary of board receives salary of $1500 annual term not limited.

Trustees of State College—Six members for three years each.

Trustees of State Hospital—Six members for four years each.

NAVY YARD NEWS

Some Class to This.

The enlisted men of the Portsmouth navy yard and reserve fleet, who now and in the past have had duty on the submarine boats on the Pacific coast, enjoyed their first reunion with a splendid banquet at the Bayview hotel in Charleston recently. Chief Quartermaster P. Woughton was in charge of the affair. The hall was artistically decorated with flags and the navy band played during the entire evening. Seventy-five enlisted men sat down to the banquet which was served at a cost of $1 per plate. Chief Gunner's Mate Erett was master of ceremonies and many speeches were made. The men were well pleased with their first reunion.

Only Two Bidders.

Only two bids were offered in Washington on January 4 for the construction of the new highway and railroad bridge from the mainland to the yard. The bidding firms were Snare & Triest of New York and C. M. Leach of Boston. Both firms have previously done considerable building at this station, the first named having erected the main prison and the coating plant.

Court Martial Hearing.

The yard court martial board are in session today hearing a charge against one of the prisoners from the ships.

Working on Boston Yard.

Victor Sawyer of Kittery Point, formerly employed as a boat builder at this yard, has been called for duty at the Charlestown yard.

Pay for Marine Guard.

The marine guard at the barracks, prison ship Southerner and Topaze, and naval prison were paid today.

Two Apprentices Make a Start.

As a result of the recent examination of apprentices, Alfred Buransie of Portsmouth has the vacancy of apprentice shipfitter, and Carl A. Meyer of Kittery that of apprentice moulder.

Marine Corps Orders.

The following officers of the First Provisional regiment and Second Provisional regiment on board U. S. S. Pradelle are ordered to their original stations:

OBSEQUIES

Thomas J. Pettigrew

The funeral of Thomas J. Pettigrew was held from his late home in North Kittery at 1:30 p. m. today. Rev. C. L. V. Brine officiating. Interment was in the family lot in charge of Undertaker O. W. Ham.

Nathaniel Huntress

The funeral of Nathaniel Huntress was held at 1 p. m. today from Ham's Chapel, Market street, Rev. W. P. Stanley officiating. Interment was in Newington cemetery in charge of Undertaker O. W. Ham.

John Falvey

The funeral services of the late John Falvey were held at the Church of the Immaculate Conception this forenoon at 9 o'clock. A large number of life-long friends and acquaintances attended. Rev. William J. White offered high mass of requiem for the soul of the deceased. The Gregorian chant was rendered by the senior choir. At the conclusion of the service, Mrs. Margaret Hett rendered an appropriate soprano solo.

The interment took place in Calvary cemetery under the direction of Undertaker W. P. Mitchell. The following acted as pallbearers: William Ballard, Michael Hurley, Michael Daley, John Holland, John Casey, Patrick D. Shea.

The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous and included the following:

Pillow, ferns, pinks and roses, family.

Wreath of roses, Bridge Crew, B. & M. R. R.

Cross of roses, Mr. Charles W. Gray, Mr. Herbert O. Prime.

Wreath of roses, pinks and ferns, J. W. Ham.

Mound of pinks and roses, Mrs. Rebecca Noble, Miss Ann Noble.

Mound of pinks and roses, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Parsons.

Mound, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Dow.

Mound of pinks and roses, Mr. A. H. Ham and family.

Spray of pinks, rank J. Kult.

Bouquet of white roses, Paynister and Mrs. Arms.

Spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Clark.

Spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Graton.

Mrs. Clara A. Powers.

The funeral of Mrs. Clara A. Powers was held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the home of Mr. Tourelle Philbrick, Rev. H. A. Barker officiating. The church choir rendered beautiful "Ide in the Arms of Jesus."

The pall bearers were James Perkins, Walde Philbrick, George Brown and Frank Rand. Interment was in central cemetery.

Mrs. Powers was loved and honored by all who knew her. She was of a quiet, unassuming nature devoted to her home duties and faithful in all things. Although restricted to the house by the infirmities of age she was deeply interested in the events of the day and kept in touch with them through reading. Those privileged to meet and talk with her much enjoyed her remarks on many subjects that he thoroughly understood. Bearing bravely her own sorrows she always had words of comfort and cheer for others who needed them and a good word for all. She will be greatly missed in the community where she had lived for so many years. A life of eighty-eight years, well and nobly lived, what better tribute could be given. To Mr. Philbrick, to whom she was a mother in the true sense of the word is extended the heartfelt sympathy of all many friends, who knew of her devotion to her and the endearing which he gave.

She leaves one sister, Mrs. Sidney Sampson of Hudson, Mass., to whom sympathy is extended.

The floral tributes were as follows:

Pillow, "Mother," C. O. Philbrick.

Wreath, ivy and white pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Philbrick and Mrs. Clara Seavey.

White pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Morin.

Violets, Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox.

Spray of roses, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dennis.

Pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Nell Philbrick.

Spray of sweet peas, Mr. and Mrs. Rich.

Carnations, Mr. and Mrs. Finlayson.

Narcissus, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rand.

White pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rand.

Narcissus, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown.

Spray of pinks, Mrs. James Perkins.

Pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Melges.

Pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Miltell.

Cat flowers, Mr. and Mrs. Littlefield.

BODY UNCLAIMED.

Authorities Find No Relatives of Man Dead at Salmon Falls.

The authorities of Strafford county are still engaged in trying to establish the identity of George Alton, otherwise known as John Florence, who died in the town building at Salmon Falls last Friday night.

After the removal of the body to Dover County Commissioner Frank M. Libby took charge of the papers found in the possession of the dead man and at once started out to establish his identity if possible. County Commissioner Libby called up the Tilton soldiers yesterday and learned that George A. Alton of Portsmouth died at that institution in 1905. The records show that only one George A. Alton from Portsmouth enlisted in Company K, 2nd Regiment, and how the dead man came into possession of the papers, appears to be a mystery which remains to be solved.

The dead man had been a lodger at the police station in Dover many times during the past ten or fifteen years and during that time he had also been frequently arrested for drunkenness and had done time at the Strafford County house of correction from the police court of that city.
